Russia's Part In War Revealed

Secret Report Lists Aid Given Chinese

TOKYO (AP) - How neutral is Russia in the Korean war? A hitherto secret report in Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters asserts:

"The main source of supply for present Chinese Communist forces in Korea . . . is from Soviet-furnished materiel."

Although the United Nations Command never has announced the capture of a Russian soldier, practically all of the equipment now in use by the North Korean army (NKA) and the Chinese Communist forces (CCF) is Russian-made.

So too is the swift jet interceptor plane, the MIG-15, which patrols northwest Korea from Manchurian bases.

A staff officer at Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters today made available to the Associated Press a hitherto secret report containing a list of captured guns, vehicles and other war machinery which the Soviets have turned over to the North Korean and Chinese Communist armies.

Red staff officers drafting truce supervision terms nominated Russia as a neutral observer.

A Good Concert—Missed

TT'S HARD to believe that Salem has forgotten it Quaker City Band.

But when only 100 people turn out for the band's winter concert, it isn't a very good testimonial. Possibly, the Legion bandsmen's performance came on an off night. Maybe too many citizens sat complacently beside their TV sets. Maybe the admission price of $1.00 was too high.

Nevertheless, Director George Chappell and his fine group of musicians feel the community let them down. It isn't every city that has a band of the calibre of the Quaker City

But for the 100 patrons who attended the concert at the High School the other night, the band gave one of its outstanding performformances. Those who didn't attend are the

Sex Crimes

TT IS SAFE to assume that the well-being of growing children is of paramount concern to all.

Yet, here and in many other communities no particular program is carried out to protect children from sex degenerates.

Columbiana County officials would do well to emulate its neighbor to the West, Stark County, where the year-old Stark County Council for the Prevention of Sex Crimes Against Children has carried out an effective program against sex criminals.

The Council idea was suggested by Stark County Prosecutor John Rossetti and soon had the wholehearted support of civic, religious, welfare and government agencies.

Recently in Massillon, the Kiwanis Club of that city sponsored a panel discussion of the Stark County Coucnil, discussing efforts being made to safeguard children from juvenile and adult degenerates and the problems of public officials and school authorities face in providing maximum protection and education of children so that they will not become victims of a vicious type of degenerate criminal.

Preventing sex crimes against children, however, is everyone's problem. It can not be left to one organization to control. In too many instances parents do not educate their children about sex criminals and warn them against association with strangers.

Statistics of the Stark County Council reveal that less than 10 per cent of the sex crimes which are committed are ever reported to the police or juventle authorities. A young sex offender in a Salem school has yet to be reported to the juvenile officer because school officials deemed it unwise to report the lad because he was from a good family. This level of thinking certainly doesn't protect the other children.

Parents, school and police authorities need to work hand in hand in protecting the innocent. In the opinion of Dr. Edmund Beshara, phychiatrist at the Stark County Guidance Center, all sex offenders should be given psychiatric examination and treatment. Making a sex offender serve a jail term removes him temporarily, but after his release he is again a threat to society.

The best protection to society is to have sex offenders known to them.

Spade Work In New Hampshire

CEN. TAFT, never a man to be skittish in the presence of a fact, wound up his New Hampshire campaign by tackling a king-size political fact head-on.

Gen. Eisenhower, he pointed out, was put into the New Hampshire primary under circumstances which made it impossible for voters to know what he stands for. Sen. Taft does not blame the general for this; he blames the politicians hoping to use Eisenhower's popularity to stop Taft.

Whereupon, Sen. Taft listed some of the things Republican voters have a right to know about Gen. Eisenhower-whether he agrees with the Truman-Acheson policy in Asia, whether he favors further increases in taxes, whether he blames the Truman administration for corruption in government.

In other words, if Gen. Eisenhower's backers were to call a spade a spade and reveal what the general believes on current issues, some of the popularity they claim for him as a potential vote-getter would melt away like snow in a spring thraw.

Gen. Eisenhower would then be in the realm of public controversy, where Sen. Taft has been slugging it out with his political opponents ever since 1939. Until Gen. Eisenhower's views on the same issues which have divided opinion for and against Sen, Taft are revealed, it is absurd to claim that he would be a stronger candidate in a national election. No one doubts that the general has strong opinions. But when he states them, if he ever does, they will meet with the same opposition which has made Sen. Taft the victim of more dead cats and brickbats than have been hurled at any public figure since 1939.

King Saves Coins, Razor Boxes

M/HAT KING has one of the world's finest collection of covers from razor b'ade packages?

Why, King Farouk of Egypt.

This fez-crowned, rotund nabob of the Nile has won considerable notoriety as one of the last of the royal playboys. His romances, practical jokes and rouette losses have made him one of the best known of modern monarchs. But little attention has been paid to the serious side of his nature, as reflected by Hat Sorte his urge to collect things.

Few know, for example, that Farouk has assembled probably the largest private coin collection in existence, valued at several million dollars. IT HAS NEVER been publicly exhibited as yet. One of the few who have seen it is Hans M. F. Schulman, an international dealer in rare coins who often does business with the Egyptian throne. A king may be no hero to his valet, but Farouk is one in the eyes of his coin dealer. "Everybody who collects coins basically has a serious nature," said Schulman. "But King Farouk also is an ardent stamp and match book collector. He also collects arms and armour, books on Egypt and Mohammedanism, and the covers of razor blade pack-

. The variety of his interests might lead some to suspect he was not so much a collector as an accumulator-such as the late Collyer Brothers, who filled a Manhattan brownstone with refuse ranging from new tin cans to old grand pianos.

BUT SCHULMAN, who has visited the king in his palace, says Farouk is a shrewd and active expert in his hobbies.

"After finishing his affairs of state he sometimes retires alone to his room and works over his coins and stamps until six o'clock in the morning," Schulman added.

Like any enthusiastic amateur, Farouk likes to do his collecting personally. An Amsterdam lady sent him some Dutch match book covers and hopefully asked if he had any Caire match book covers in exchange. Instead of handing the matter over to a secretary, the king rounded them up and mailed them to

"If you give him a coin as a present to add to his collection-a coin worth maybe a dollar or less-he is happier than a schoolboy."

Schulman said. But Farcuk knows values, and likes a bargain.

"His collection of U.S. coins is fantastic." Schulman remarked. "The only coin he lacks is a very rare $5 gold piece minted in 1822. One sold several years ago in Baltimore for $14,500—the highest price ever paid for a coin

"Farouk knew about it but didn't bid

SCHULMAN was understandably ill at ease when he first called at the palace. The king noticed this at once and said:

"Don't be nervous-you're just meeting another customer."

According to the coin dealer, Farouk enjoys poker, is a witty conversationalist and keeps up to the minute on American politics and American slang.

"If you ever talk about me on a television program," he said, "be sure and don't follow Dagmar-you won't be able to hold the aud-

Later, after dinner at a Cairo club, the king gave Schulman a silver cigaret case as a souvenir. He also had a present for Mrs. Schulman-a cigar.

"He has a real sense of humor," explained Schulman.

Outfielders Spark Indians To 5-4 Victory Over Giants

Doby's Triple Breaks Deadlock

Mitchell, Fridley Hit Well; Play Today

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - With a rookie named Jim Fridley in right field, Cleveland's outfield is showing the kind of punch that was sorely needed in last season's pennant drive.

Fridley seems to be taking seriously Manager Al Lopez' advice to show everything he has right now if he wants to stay with the club instead of returning to Dallas. In two games against the New York Giants, he has picked up five hits.

He had three yesterday at Phoenix. Together, he, Dale Mitchell and Larry Doby totaled seven and drove in all five runs in a 5-4 victory over Pitchers Jim Hearn, Larry Jansen and Sal Maglie.

But it was Doby's one hit in five times at bat that meant the big one for Cleveland. With the score 3-3 in the seventh, his long triple to center scored Harry Simpson. Mitchell's single scored Doby.

A-Bomb Testing Will Continue

Scientists Plan Deep-Water Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)-A deepwater explosion of an atomic bomb to determine the feasibility of using them against war ships at sea appears probable in the forthcoming series of tests at the Marshall Islands nuclear weapon grounds.

In six years of experimenting, the atomic weaponeers have tried out explosions under a variety of conditions - mid - air burst, surface explosions, underground and in shallow water. They now have amassed a vast amount of data on what such blast will do to buildings, underground structures, weapns, ships anchored in harbor and to men.

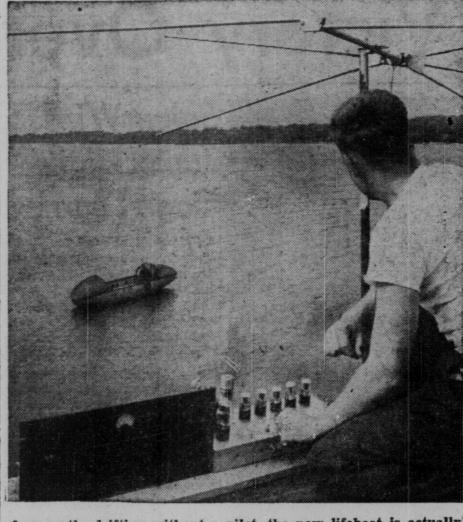

But until they go ahead with a test first planned and then abandoned in 1946, they will not know how effective would be a deepwater blast of an atomic "mine" against a force of war ships or a convoy under way on the high

The assumption is that at least some target will be used in the test, although instruments that record shock, pressure, radiation and other effects could provide valuable data alone.

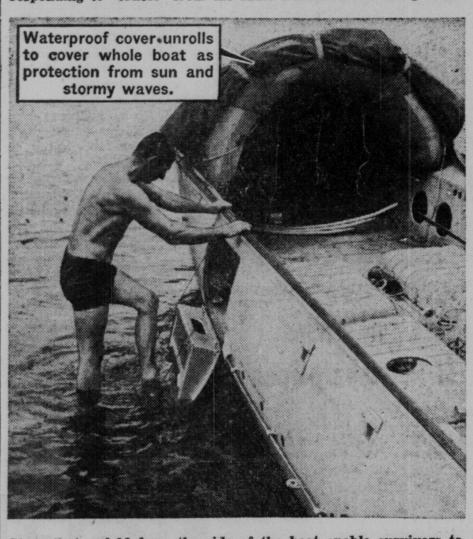

Without tapping its reserve fleet of modern, useful vessels, the Navy has on hand a large number of combatant ships, transports and smaller craft, many of which could be used in the experiment. Left over from the 1946 Bikini tests are several battleships and cruisers, almost a dozen destroyers, a half dozen submarines and a variety of transports.

The "Baker" test in Bikini Lagoon produced formidable results; two battleships, a big carrier, three submarines and some small crait were sunk in that single blast of one weapon.

But scientists and military leaders believe a great deal of the destructive force of the bomb depth of the lagoon - about 180 feet at the deepest point. A great deal of the bomb's power was expended in the spectacular (al- water shot might produce far would be held within the water shock could do was had at Bikini. ed, bulkheads and equipment seriously injured. though tactically useless) column greater damage over a much and the shock transmitted to the Some ships which escaped actual torn loose and thrown violently

Rescue Plane's Radio Controls New Lifeboat

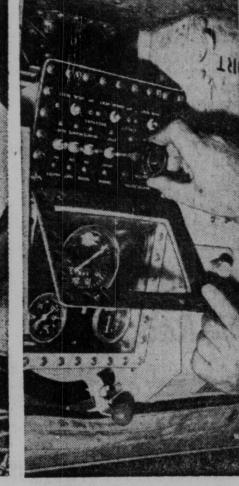

Here's how the new airborne lifeboat is dropped by parachute from an airplane. The 3500-pound craft has provisions for 15 men for 10 days, fuel for an 800-mile cruise, water-distilling machine.

New rescue insuarance for survivors of plane crashes at sea or shipwrecks is seen in the radio-controlled lifeboat just perfected by joint efforts of the Wright Air Development Center at Dayton Air Force Base and Westinghouse Electric Corporation engineers. Successful trial runs were made at Lake Pymatuming, near Sharon, Pa., and final Air Force tests at Mobile, Ala. The 30-foot-long boat is dropped by parachute into the sea from the rescue airplane. Then radio signals take over complete control, driving and steering the craft to survivors. Radio impulses from the rescue plane open engine air vents, crank and automatically choke the boat reaches the survivors, the motor, engage the clutch, and advance the throttle. When it stops. They climb aboard and, if their physical condition is good, they take over control. Simply by pushing certain buttons or operating switches, the survivors can start and stop the boat, steer it in any direction. # You're off in a Swirl of Power!

TE'RE willing to wager that not one person W in a hundred knows what really goes on inside an automobile engine-so let's take this by easy stages.

The instant you nudge Buick's Fireball 8 Engine into action - a whole string of things starts to happen.

Eight sparks begin to crackle in well-timed sequence. Eight pistons start gliding up and down with rhythmic precision. Eight pairs of valves dance open and closed - to let fuel charges in, exhaust gases out of cylinder after cylinder.

All right, you say, what's so complex about that? Can't anyone build an engine that does this to perfection?

Well, we'd better add, these things happen at the rate of more than 10,000 times per mile and that's 100 times per second at 35 miles an

So - it's important to know that Buick uses a deep-breathing valve-in-head design that shoots a fuel charge in - cleans exhaust gases out - in a hurry.

It's important to know that all the power released by the fuel concentrates its driving force right on the head of each Buick piston. (Everyone who has recently built "new" highcompression engines copied this "Buick first.")

But most important of all - Buick adds one more twist which others still haven't copied.

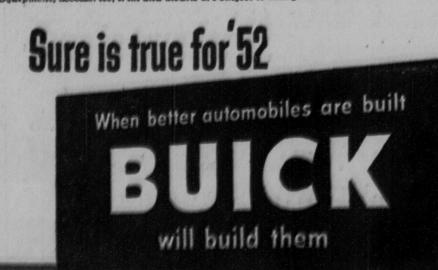

Every charge of fuel rushing into a Buick engine becomes a twisting, swirling, highcompressed ball that flashes with sudden, consuming completeness the instant the spark sets it afire.

And to add this all up: clean, complete combustion-10,000 times per mile-is the secret of getting more power-more miles-from each gallon of gasoline.

So we're not simply using picture words when we tell you that Buick-and only Buick-has a FIREBALL ENGINE - or that you're off in a swirl of power with one of these high-powered performers under the hood.

1952 has brought a lot of sparkling new improvements which you'll want to see and admire when you come to our showrooms.

But the thrill of thrills is still what you and a Buick-and a Fireball 8 Engine-can do out on the road. When do you want to try a sample? Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice

"awaken Cuba against corruption in government." Salas said forces friendly to Batista had asked him to take over.

Comparatively little violence marked Batista's bid for power, which came as a complete surprise. Two palace guards were slain by submachinegun fire from a speeding police automobile.

Prio drove away from the palace followed by a busload of soldiers and later two tanks appeared before the building.

Appearing sad and under great strain, Prio said upon his departure: "We will resist if the people of Cuba support me and constituted government." This indicated Prio had little bia, but reporters at the military post did not report his appear-
